Clinton Davis String Band

The Clinton Davis String Band has emerged as a compelling new presence in the West Coast old-time music community. This trio of versatile multi-instrumentalists plays a repertoire representing old time, bluegrass, and ragtime traditions from across the country.

The band is led by native Kentuckian Clinton Davis, who has been called “a master...carrying on the traditional music torch of Mike Seeger” by Stefan Grossman, and “simply sublime” by Deering Banjos.

Guitarist Tim McNalley is a composer, arranger, and songwriter from Southern California who also performs on guitar, keyboards, cello, violin, mandolin, and sitar. He has collaborated with Paul McCartney, Ariana Grande, Adam Melchor, Changuito, Jim Kweskin, Burt Turetzky, among others.

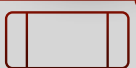

Ryan Finch, hometown Bishop, CA, now lives in San Diego, where he provides professional engineering, mixing, and production services for recording projects. He performs on piano, guitar, bass, banjo, and mandolin.
